

Where do Jews and Arabs play together?

When people play together they learn to coexist. That's what makes the new Israel Tennis Center in Sajur, a Druze village in northern Israel so important.

Israel's Tennis Centers are helping hundreds of thousands of Israeli children as young as seven - Arab and Israeli, secular and religious, native-born and newly immigrated - to learn basic life skills necessary for success and coexistence.

Photo by Lynne Coates

In Israel

The real Israel is different than the Israel in the news.