

Where does Vietnam send students to learn about advanced agricultural methods?

Vietnam sends college students every year to an 11-month course in Israel. The Vietnamese students meet and work with farming experts in Israel. They study Israel's state-of-the-art agricultural technologies, advanced irrigational techniques, post-harvest technologies, and farm management techniques.

Thirty one Vietnamese students are currently attending this program in Israel and the figure is expected to increase to 80 next year.
